In Re: Incorporation of Tobacco Trail, Inc.

It takes a first class road for a first class ride! Light-colored concrete makes it easy and relaxing to drive at night. You can really see where you're going and you won't find yourself constantly "outdriving your headlights." That's because light-colored concrete gives you far better visibility at night than any dark surface.

On lighted highways and expressways, this extra-high night visibility level saves tax money on the lighting. Fewer fixtures are needed. More important, it cuts the highway electric bill—up to $720 per mile per year. That's an amount far exceeding any other upkeep cost.

Modern concrete gives you other safety and money saving advantages, too. A grainy surface for dependable skid resistance. A smooth, flat ride—you're always in control of your car. Initial cost is moderate, yet modern concrete will last an expected 50 years and more. And upkeep costs will stay low (as much as 60% less than for asphalt).

Put them all together and you'll see why modern concrete is the preferred pavement for new highways—especially on the Interstate System. A new booklet on highways is worth reading. You can have a copy free by writing for it.
